Scene 3.2: Meet Barton Seaver

Barton Seaver: Hi, I'm Barton Seaver. I'm a cook. What I love so much about what I do is that environmentalism is so often thought of as this distant idea, this whale that we need to save in some distant ocean far away, but dinner is full contact environmentalism; we all participate, we all have our share in it. And it makes it a great thing because…also delicious is the new environmentalism; we all have a chance to save the earth, through our fork, through our plates.

Narrator: So what's on your plate? Think about the spices, tastes and sustainability of your dinner. Actually, the more we care about our food, the happier our Earth will be.
