Scene 6.2: Meet Nizar Ibrahim

Nizar Ibrahim: Spinosaurus is probably the most bizarre dinosaur out there. I think it's very difficult to…to really visualize, in your mind, what a 15 m (50 ft.) long predator looks like. It's got a giant 2 m (6-7 ft.) sail on its back. It's got a long, slender snout like a crocodile, and powerful arms, a long tail. As we pieced this skeleton together, it became apparent that this was the first dinosaur that was actually spending a substantial amount of time in the water, and that's really significant. We thought that dinosaurs were really land animals, but it turns out that at least one dinosaur did venture into the rivers. It really is an amazing creature.
