DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH

Choosing a Major

1. Many students in their first year of university study have difficulty choosing majors.
2. Fortunately, there are some steps students can take to help them make the right choice. First, students can meet with an academic advisor. Because academic advisors are familiar with all the majors offered at the university, they are providing helpful information to guide students toward a specific field of study. Next, students can visit the university career center and meet with a career advisor. Career advisors are knowledgeable about the type of major needed for a specific career. Career advisors also administer skills inventories and career interest tests to help students identify possible careers. Finally, students can ask their professors for advice. Professors are able to share their experiences and offer valuable insights into what studying a specific major requires in terms of skills, abilities, and effort. After taking these steps, students are usually ready to select a major in their second year of academic study.

Notes

1. Constructions are almost never used in academic writing.
2. See Appendix 4, Irregular Verbs, on page 220 for examples of irregular past participles.

ACTIVITY 1

Fill in the blank with the correct form of the verb in parentheses: simple present, present progressive, or present perfect. Use not when it is given.

1. The earth (become, present progressive) warmer, so scientists are worried about the future of the planet.
2. Aircraft mechanics (wear, simple present) headphones at work because the planes are so loud.
3. The documentary on pollution (receive, present progressive) a lot of attention from critics.
4. The volunteers (not, travel, present perfect) since the war began.
5. I (preview, simple present) upcoming chapters before the instructor’s lecture, and it always makes me more prepared for class.
6. The latest legislation (not, help, present progressive) students with their huge college loans.
7. The indigenous tribes (want, always, present perfect) a land of their own.
8. The singer (be, present) also a well-known environmental activist.
Common Uses

1.6 Using Simple Present

The simple present is commonly used in academic writing. It is used:

1. to write about general truths and facts that are not limited to a specific time
   - It takes about 12 hours for your body to digest a meal.

2. to write about a repeated or habitual action
   - Every fall, Canadian geese fly south for the winter.

3. to cite a source
   - Sleep researchers say that most people dream four to six times per night.

4. to give details about information from a book, poem, or film
   - We use simple present because an event in a book or film remains the same every time we read or see it. This is called the literary present.

   In "The Story of an Hour," Mrs. Mallard learns of her husband’s death, but she does not feel sad.

Note

Stative (non-action) verbs describe a state, rather than an action. They usually take the simple present form of the verb. Note the most common ones below.

- be (exist)
- consist of
- dislike
- realize
- seem
- want
- belong to
- depend on
- include
- recognize
- understand

1.7 Using Present Progressive

The present progressive is not as commonly used in writing as other verb forms. However, it is used:

1. to describe events in real time
   - In some countries, people are paying more taxes than ever before.

2. to write about the continuation of an event
   - Temperatures are continuing to rise because of global warming.

1.8 Using Present Perfect

The present perfect is used to write about past events that are still relevant now. It is used:

1. to write about an event that happened in the past and continues until now
   - Alaska has been a U.S. state since 1959.
   - Alaska has been a U.S. state for more than 50 years.

2. to write about a very recent past event that is important to the current discussion
   - The government has passed a new tax law that will have an immediate impact on citizens.

ACTIVITY 2

Fill in the blank with the correct simple present, present progressive, or present perfect form of the verb in parentheses. Use not when given. More than one answer may be possible.

1. In his poem "The Raven," author Edgar Allen Poe (use) numerous symbols to express loneliness.

2. Global sea levels (rise) rapidly since the beginning of the 21st century.

ACTIVITY 9  Steps to Composing

Read the paragraph. Then follow the directions in the 10 steps to edit the information and composition of this paragraph. Write your revised paragraph on a separate sheet of paper. Be careful with capitalization and punctuation. Check your answers with the class.

DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH

The Human Heart

1 The human heart is an amazing organ. 2 It is responsible for pushing blood inside the circulatory system. 3 The left side of the heart pumps blood to the entire body. 4 The right side pumps blood to the lungs to receive oxygen. 5 Our lungs do two things: they receive oxygen when we inhale and remove carbon dioxide when we exhale. 6 Inside the lungs, the respiratory system interacts with the circulatory system. 7 Then the blood moves to the right side of the heart into a filling chamber, which is called the right atrium. 8 With each individual heartbeat, blood moves from the right atrium into a pumping chamber. 9 After that, the blood picks up oxygen. 10 Once the blood picks up oxygen, it pushes back to the heart, filling another chamber, which is called the left atrium. 11 Doctors want to expand their research into the blood circulation of the heart in order to have a better understanding of both the heart and the blood that pumps through our veins. 12 The functions of the heart are truly amazing.

9. Sentence 11 ends with the phrase in order to have a better understanding of both the heart and the blood that pumps through our veins. Move this phrase to the beginning of the sentence to improve sentence variety. Pay attention to punctuation.

10. In sentence 12, change the phrase the functions of the heart to the way the heart functions.

ACTIVITY 10  Original Writing

On a separate sheet of paper, write a descriptive paragraph (at least six sentences) about the characteristics of a particular person or thing. Use at least two examples of the simple present and one example of present perfect, and underline them.

Here are some examples of how to begin.

• A good leader possesses three main characteristics.
• In order to be a successful student, one should do three things.
• A smart phone has several important functions.

1. In sentence 1, change an to probably the most.
2. In sentence 2, change it to this organ.
3. In sentence 2, change the word inside to throughout.
4. Combine sentences 3 and 4 using while. Make any other necessary changes.
5. In sentence 5, change our lungs to each lung.
6. In sentence 6, change the respiratory system to individuals’ respiratory systems.
7. In sentence 7, change moves to flows. We usually use this verb when referring to blood.
8. In sentence 10, the phrasal verb picks up is repetitive. Change picks up to collects.
