Stages
infancy → childhood → adolescence → adulthood

• In a survey of 1,000 parents and 500 children, 43 percent of the grown-ups said they wanted to be their children’s “best friend.”
• 40 percent said they wanted to buy their children everything they wanted.

Peggy, a parent with a 15-year-old teenager, said, “My childhood was difficult. We didn’t have any money. I want to give my son everything he asks for.”

Fred, a single dad, said, “Adulthood is all about responsibility. Adolescence is all about having fun. I don’t want my children to work too hard.”

Dr. Julio Garcia, a childcare specialist, says, “Children need an adult to rely on. They need rules—and a best friend isn’t going to give you rules.”

Interestingly, the young adults in the survey didn’t share their parents’ values.

• When they are ready to start a family, only 28 percent of them want to be their children’s best friend.
• Only 10 percent want to buy their kids everything.

C Discuss the article in B with a partner. Then answer these questions.

1. Who do you agree with: Peggy, Fred, or Dr. Garcia?
2. When you are ready to start your own family, how will you raise your children?
3 LISTENING
A Pronunciation: Content word emphasis. Listen to and repeat the following sentences. Notice how the underlined words are stressed. CD 1 Track 8

4 SPEAKING
A Listen to and read the conversation between Yuri and Max. Then read the three false statements about Max. Correct them and make them true. CD 1 Track 11
1. Max doesn’t know how to drive.
2. His driver’s license disappeared.
3. He’s traveling in two days.
   YUR: What are you studying for, Max?
   MAX: Oh, hi, Yuri... just my driving test.
   YUR: Your driving exam? Don’t you have a driver’s license already?
   MAX: I had one... but it expired*, so I have to take the test again.
   YUR: That’s a drag.
   MAX: Yeah, and I need to get my license soon.
   YUR: How come?
   MAX: I’m planning to visit my cousins in two weeks. I need to rent a car for the trip.
   YUR: Sounds like fun. Well, good luck with everything!
   * expire = to come to an end
B Practice the conversation with a partner.

SPeAKING Strategies
C What do you think these people’s plans are? What do they need to do? Share your ideas with a partner. Use the Useful Expressions to help you.

At first, Fran Turner's life wasn't so different. Like many people, she fell in love and (1) ______________. Fran got pregnant and the couple (2) ______________ two ______________. She and her husband bought a house. Fran got a job as a lawyer's assistant while she also raised her family. She was your typical "working mom."

Over the years, things changed. One of Fran's daughters graduated from high school. Another left home and enrolled in college. Fran went to school and studied journalism. Fran and her husband also began to grow apart. She never really expected to (3) ______________—but her marriage ended.

Fran (4) ______________ in 1952. And in 1998, at the age of 46, she decided to take a trip to Central America. Fran realized that she liked traveling. For the last 20 years, she has traveled around the world, meeting new people, learning about new cultures, and writing about her experiences for travel magazines. She loves it, and probably is not going to retire anytime soon!

B Look again at the expressions in blue in A. When do these events typically happen in one's life: childhood, adolescence, or adulthood? Complete the rest of the box with present tense forms.

C Don't look at A. Use the expressions in B to retell Fran's story with a partner.
JOHN FRANCIS: THE PLANET WALKER

John Francis was born in 1946 in Philadelphia, in the United States, but in his early twenties, he left home and moved to the San Francisco area. In many ways, John’s life in his new city was pretty typical. He got a job and made friends. He planned for his future. But then, two years after he arrived, something happened, and the event changed John’s life forever.

One day, there was a big oil spill\(^1\) that caused a lot of damage to the local environment. The spill killed hundreds of animals and polluted the water in the area terribly. John was so upset by this that he decided to stop using automobiles altogether. Instead, he started walking everywhere.

When John told people he didn’t ride in cars, people argued with him. John didn’t like to fight, so he decided to stop talking for an entire day. One day became two, two days turned into a week, and finally, John decided to stop talking completely. After several weeks, he discovered something: He realized that he didn’t always listen to people. By not talking, he started to really hear what others had to say.

John remained silent for 17 years. During this time, he tried to teach others about protecting the environment. He was in the newspaper several times, and he even gave lectures at universities. Although he didn’t talk, John was still able to get his message across to listeners. He explained his ideas through hand motions, paintings, and the music of his banjo.

John eventually enrolled in college (he walked hundreds of kilometers to get there), and he got a degree in environmental studies. After he graduated, John continued his journey around the United States. He also traveled on foot and by boat to South America, the Caribbean, and other places around the world, trying to educate people about caring for the environment and each other.

John wanted to share his story with more people, so in 1990 he started to talk again. John also started to ride in cars, but his work continued. He helped write environmental laws, worked for the United Nations as a goodwill ambassador, and started Planetwalk, an organization that helps raise awareness\(^2\) for environmental and humanitarian\(^3\) issues. He also started working with National Geographic.

Today, John Francis is still trying to make the world a better place. He has written a book to inspire a new generation of planetwalkers. In it, he explains how anyone can make their own walk. He also continues to teach people about the environment. The environment, he says, is not just about animals and plants. It’s about how we treat each other. If we’re going to make the world a better place, we need to do it for each other, not just ourselves.

\(^1\) If there is an oil spill, oil comes out of a ship and goes into the water.

\(^2\) To raise awareness is to bring attention to something.

\(^3\) Humanitarian issues have to do with improving human lives.
