SUPER FIRSTBORNS

What makes us who we are? Is it the environment we grow up in? Is it the people we live with? Some experts tell us that half of our personality is genetics—our natural makeup, or the way we are born. Gender—whether you’re a boy or a girl—is also a consideration. Age is another factor. In families with more than one child, birth order is sometimes thought to be important. But some families have only one child.

Another name for only children is “onlies,” though experts sometimes refer to an only child as a “super firstborn.” This is because an only child has many of the advantages of the firstborn child but doesn’t experience the changes of a new baby arriving in the family. There is no competition from a sibling—a brother or sister—so onlies have their parents’ full attention. Some onlies are mature and responsible because they spend a lot of time with adults. They learn to be self-entertainers and can be creative and imaginative when the adults around them are busy.

On the other hand, some only children can become jealous of their parents’ adult friends. They can be self-centered and selfish if these friends ignore them and take too much attention away from them. They may be used to feeling important, and can appear spoiled when things don’t go their way. Some onlies who aren’t used to sharing can be bossy around other children.

What happens when there is only a birth order of one? As we’ve seen, birth order is just one of many factors that can influence our personalities and affect the way we are.
Look at the words and phrases you underlined in the article. Write each in one of the categories.

Read and answer the questions.

1. Why are only children referred to as “super firstborns”?

2. Why can only children sometimes be more imaginative?

3. Why do some onlies find it difficult to play with other children?

Read “Super Firstborns” again. Complete the idea web with factors that influence personality. Can you think of any other factors to add? Write them on the lines.

In your own words, describe two of the factors that you feel most influenced you.
GRAMMAR
Using it to talk about weather, time, and distance, and for emphasis

| It’s a sunny day. Let’s go out.               | It’s great that she won.                      |
| It’s 11 o’clock at night. It’s time to go home. | It upsets me when my brother is bossy.       |
| It’s the 22nd today. It’s my birthday!    | I love it when she smiles.                 |
| It was 5 miles to Robert’s house.         | I don’t like it when I’m late for class.   |

We use it to talk about the weather and to express time, dates, and distance. It does not refer to any specific person, thing, or place. It is the subject of the sentence.

We also use it to introduce a sentence that expresses an opinion or to provide emphasis. (In “It’s great that she won,” it has the same meaning as the words that she won.)

1. It annoys me when ________________________________.

2. It’s great that ________________________________.

3. It’s weird that ________________________________.

4. It’s not fair that ________________________________.

5. It makes me happy when ________________________________.
It’s my birthday tomorrow, and I don’t know what to do!

I looked at the weather forecast for tomorrow, and it will be cold and windy on the beach. I hate it when it’s too cold on the beach; you can’t go for a swim.

My friends and I could go to my favorite restaurant. But it would take 45 minutes to get there from downtown.

Or, we could go to the movies. There’s a popular film I’d like to see. But it’s Friday, and I can’t buy the tickets today. Then tomorrow the movie theater will be crowded, and we won’t be able to get tickets.

It’s too bad that I can’t have a party at home. My mom and dad hate it when there is a mess and a lot of noise.

It just drives me crazy when I can’t decide what to do!

1. What day of the week is Tanya’s birthday?

2. Why doesn’t Tanya want to go to the beach?

3. Why doesn’t she want to go to her favorite restaurant?

4. Why can’t she go to the movies?

5. Why can’t she have a party at home?
WRITING

We use certain expressions when we want to compare (write about similarities) or contrast (write about differences). We use words such as the following examples to compare or contrast two people, places, or things.

- Compare: alike, both, in the same way, too
- Contrast: although, but, on the other hand, unlike

Organize

1. Your task is to compare and contrast your personality with that of a family member or friend. Think about how you are similar to and different from the person you chose. Make notes in the Venn diagram about your personalities and also about your hobbies and interests.

```
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>My</th>
<th>Both</th>
<th>Me</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>organized</td>
<td>responsible</td>
<td>energetic</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
```

2. Think about how you will introduce your family member or friend. Write a possible topic sentence here.

---

Next, you’ll need a paragraph describing how you and your family member or friend are similar, and a paragraph about how you’re different. Use the words from the Writing box.

Finally, write a concluding paragraph saying whether you and your family member or friend are more similar than different, or more different than similar.

Write

1. Go to p. 21 in your book. Reread the model and writing prompt.

2. Write your first draft. Check for organization, content, punctuation, capitalization, and spelling.

3. Check your final draft. Share it with your teacher and classmates.
